Dear Friend,

Thanks for your payment of $15. As you may have already read, the Lee Collection of California Fractional Gold Coins was sold intact to an investment group. However, our September 22-24 sale will still feature an outstanding offering of over 340 Fractional Gold Coins, including many "finest known", numerous great rarities and coins offered at public sale for the first time. Over one hundred of these Fractional Gold Coins are illustrated in the catalogue which will be sent to you plus prices realized.

As a bonus, we will still send you the new book "California Pioneer Fractional Gold Coins" with all of the new research by Walter Breen, Ron Gillio, and others. This book will regularly sell for $29.50...but it is yours at not additional cost! The books will be shipped in the Fall.

We appreciate your interest in our sale, particularly in the fascinating California Fractional Gold Coin Series, and look forward to being of service for all of your collecting needs.

Dear Mr Newman,

I read the fine article about you in the newspaper and wondered if you could advise me as to whether I may have a valuable coin.

A similar coin is listed in the Red Guide Book of U.S. Coins under Pacific Company. It shows a great deal of wear. It was cast with a smooth edge and has a small engraved R by the branch on which the eagle is sitting. I believe the metal is bronze.

If you think it may have some value, who should I sell as I am a novice about coins

January 27, 1992

Dear Mike:

Your January 20, 1992 letter about the EAC convention certainly is encouraging. Our museum will try to do everything possible to be helpful. Its normal hours are 9 AM to 4 PM everyday including Saturday and Sunday, but if we make a special request to the bank we can have it open during an evening as well. It is an easy walk of only about 6 blocks from the hotel.

We plan to have a special museum exhibit of American copper coins prior to the establishment of the mint. We will try to show things the group has not previously seen in such choice condition.

There will also be a special half cent exhibit at the museum about which Tett has probably advised you. He is arranging that.

If anyone wants to see anything else in our collection access to the safe deposit vaults of the bank in which our collection is housed is available by a special appointment with me between 9 AM and 4:30 PM weekdays only.

For the convention hotel exhibit I am assembling some numismatic printed matter on coppers which I hope will be new to most of the group. One case will be enough.

It is a pleasure to try to enhance the activities of the convention and I look forward to seeing you and all the gang.

If you have any other suggestions or wishes please let me know.

Sincerely,

Eric P. Newman

Mr. Mike Packard [redacted] April 20, 1992

Dear Mike:

Your kind letter of April 11, 1992 is very much appreciated. You do things for EAC every day and I only have the opportunity on occasion. I am delighted that you and others enjoyed the "event" in St. Louis.

As to the Massachusetts transposed arrows I do not believe it was recolored. I originally had thoughts that way, but it has not changed color in the 50 years I have had it and it is described as finest known and uncirculated in the Newcomer listing. Green obtained it from Newcomer and then it came to me.

As to your interest in the Mass cent listing in Hall I enclose photocopies.

Thank you very much for the tape of the Streiner comments. Your Mass quick finder goes into our library with pleasure.

The thoughts you outlined about the feeder track are welcome. The track apparently was a channel in which the nippers slid back and forth. I do believe that a separate nippers was prepared for each denomination at the U.S. Mint. When several presses were used they would have separate parts for each, some being transferable.

My very kindest regards and appreciation,

Sincerely,

Eric P. Newman

Dear Mr. Page:

The Catalogue of the Mint Collection and the Foreign Coins book have found a place in my library and I sincerely appreciate your thoughtfulness in sending them to me so promptly. My only hope is that numismatists will use them along with many other books which we are always glad to make available to those who are serious.

I enjoyed talking to you at the meeting and hope that our paths cross many more times.

Dear Mr. Painter:

Thank you for your letter of May 25, 1968.

Since I plan to be in your area in the latter part of July, it would be nice to get together. I will appreciate seeing your library and having the opportunity of looking at the books you feel I should be familiar with.

You did not give me your address, which I would appreciate knowing.

Incidentally, I have just learned that the decision of the arbitrators in the USAOG matter will not be published, for the present, by COIN WORLD, as they planned to do. Apparently objections have been made.

I will be telephoning you in a week or so.

Dear Kenyon:

It just occurred to me that I had not heard from you since I wrote you on July 24, 1968 and thought I would check up. Presumably, you received the book I sent.

I believe you were going to check up further, from a real estate point of view or otherwise, as to what the Phoenix resident we tried to visit, is doing. Would it be possible to check with the Credit Bureau to find out if he is employed? I would very much like to know whether you have found out anything. I will gladly telephone you if you write me whether you know any more.

Would you mind giving me an appraisal of this coin? I sent it to Coin World & they suggested I send it to you as they are uncertain as to whether it is 1) off Metal 2) Counterfeit 3) plated or 4) poor mint metal mixture. Their weighing machine indicates it is lighter than a normal penny.

Dear Mr. Panitch:

You were very thoughtful to write me about your Church money specialty. I rely on people like you to inform me on items which are not listed. I was unaware of the Linlithgow item. Many thanks.

Please send me two additional photocopies of it and of the back if printed. Please advise whether it has a blank back. What does "Rev." stand for and what does "Pr." stand for? Maybe a church official will know if you do not. I see no material difference between your two pieces except possibly the hyphen after bear- is missing on one of them (this could be a photocopy problem or a printing problem).

I also enclose photocopies of the present form of the third edition pages relating to Albany and to the other Reformed Churches. The prices will be modified.

Please make any suggestions for improvement of the book as the type is being set now. They will be welcome.

Re: Naftzger vs. ANS

Dear Don:

In accordance with your decision as president of ANS and that of Ute as executive director made during the December 18, 1999 telephone conversation with me I enclose a copy of the long delayed 5 page settlement offer dated December 16, 1999 from Naftzger's New York attorney to John R. Horan requesting that it be submitted to ANS Council and requesting that the pending litigation be delayed while the offer is being considered. Horan and I feel that it would be pointless to submit the offer to Council members because it contains nothing realistic to consider. Its distribution to so so large a group as the Council or its leak would only cause complication, confusion and delay. You and Ute agreed that Horan should promptly inform the opposition that there would be no postponement agreed to for any proceedings and that will be done. The offer itself can then be considered by you and Ute after both of you have the opportunity to read it and ask questions to Horan and me. Both of you agreed that no copy should be sent by fax or otherwise to anyone at ANS for the present, thus Ute is not being sent a copy be me.

This is a worse settlement offer than was made to Horan orally before the last Court of Appeal decision. It is more a reargument of the case. The offer does not relate to any punitive damages or attorneys fees as decided by the Court of Appeal. It

Dear Jules:

My delay in paying your statement for the brass folding English guinea scale was due to a little disappointment in the item. The maker's name etc. is usually pasted in on a paper inside the box. One paper is there, not both. The scale does not rise to position and collapse by itself but must be pushed there by hand and this is not customary. The price is pricey.

Dear Eric,

First, I apologize for being so slow to send this poem. After I spoke with you on the phone last week I went back to the microfilm of Taylor's poetry to gaze at that cancelled word, which I no longer believe is "farthing."

Perhaps you can help me make sense of the cancelled phrase with one of the remaining possibilities. The first letter of what I took to be "farthing" is definitely either f or s. The vowel is illegible beneath ink. The double consonant in the middle is probably tt, but ll is possible. The ing is definite. The options then look like this.

f/satting	f/selling	(I omit i because
f/setting	f/selling	a dot does not appear
f/sotting	f/solling	above the vowel.)
f/sutting	f/sulling

If you have any thoughts on this, I'd greatly appreciate your sharing them with me.

I very much enjoyed talking with you.

Dear Dan:

Since you eliminated "farthing" explanations from your question, I can only be of minimum help.

The words "a little drachm" give me a clue. Dram was Drachm in 1722. There were two types of dram---a dram avoirdupois (27.344 grains) and an apothecary dram (60 grains). These weights were commonly used in England and America. The "sixty" in the striken text must refer to the 60 grain weight equivalent of drachm. You will note that "grain" is used in lines 10 and 12, and to avoid dullness had to be eliminated from some line. Could the eliminated word be graining or tithing or something which rhymes with thing?

The ball is in your court now. I hope I have been slightly helpful.

Dear Mr. Newman:

Mr. Harold L. Bowen of Detroit gave me your name and thought you might have a few Michigan notes. I am interested in these and if you have some, either duplicates or otherwise, would be real glad to hear from you.

I have one item you could possibly be interested in. It is a sheet of two notes issued by the "Corporation of St. Joseph" for 12½¢ each. The notes have no identification as to State. On one is a penciled notation "Mich" but I am doubtful (although uncertain) they were ever issued by that city. They bear the date "183 ". The notation was probably put there merely because some one knew there is a St Joseph in Michigan.

The central design is a female figure standing in the foreground. On one side of her and standing in the background are farm buildings with a farmer plowing with a two horse team. On the other side of her are two men and horse, and a quite distant church spire. The design on the right side of the note is a sailing ship with men in a rowboat, on the left of the note is a female figure.

It has been suggested these may have been issued by the corporation of St. Joseph, Mo. Would you know? St. Joseph, Michigan, was incorporated as a village in 1834. But Michigan cities do not, and I believe did not, use the term "corporation" as is done in many states in referring to them. I do not want to part with them until I can definitely determine they are not Michigan items. But if not I am willing too. They apparantly are not from St. Joseph, La. Where they use the term "Parish". You may be familiar with them.

I will be glad to hear from you as to Michigan notes and as to what you may have to say as to the above notes being from St. Joseph, Mo., or not.

Dear Mr. Paxson:

I will have to wait until after the holidays to see if I have any Michigan notes in which you might be interested.

I know the notes you refer to from St. Joseph and was interested to know if they were from Missouri. St. Joseph, Missouri was not incorporated by 1840, so I assumed they were Michigan notes because St. Joseph, Michigan was so incorporated. However, it might still be Louisiana because it is a city on the Mississippi River and would not be designated as a "Parish" as the parishes are the county subdivisions in Louisiana and the cities are often designated as "corporations". I have other notes from Louisiana designating corporations. Why don't you look up St. Joseph, Louisiana and see when it was established and when it was incorporated, or write to its Mayor?
